The skills required for a career as a habitat designer can be divided into two very important groups. The first is the group containing life skills, which are the core skills that are necessary or desirable for full participation in everyday life. The second group is career skills, or the specific skills required to allow a person to enter and operate effectively within a specific career.

Your job will be to design the layout of our zoo! First, you'll need to do some maths. Work out the expected perimeter and area of each enclosure, and use grid paper to cut out each 'enclosure' to scale. Label each with the animal type, perimeter and area. Now, try arranging them in different patterns on a full A4 sheet of grid paper, to work out which arrangement fits best and you like the
