As promised here is a 500 buyers guide/FAQ which I promised many many months ago. To be honest it's still mostly the one I did in October 2009 so there is a lot that's changed since then (twinair engine and spec) and with it being very rough there are things which may be wrong and there are silly things like the fact that I yammer on about tyre sizes before I talk about engines and spec levels ...

I have seen many Fiat 500s restored by removing the whole front end, including wings, front panel, bulkhead and inner wheel-arches almost in one go. On rebuilding with new panels, often this leads to very poor gaps and alignments. I think that the old chestnut that "that's how they often were when new" is a bit of a cop-out.
