Masterminds of Programming : Conversations with the ...

If the definition of a low level language is one that bedevils the programmer with minutiae, the Forth is the lowest of the low. I don't understand the fascination others have for it, and don't understand how anyone can like it after actually programming with it. It's horrible.

Masterminds of Programming features exclusive interviews with the creators of several historic and highly influential programming languages. In this unique collection, you'll learn about the processes that led to specific design decisions, including the goals they had in mind, the trade-offs they had to make, and how their experiences have left an impact on programming today.

ABC is an imperative general-purpose programming language and programming environment developed at CWI, Netherlands by Leo Geurts, Lambert Meertens, and Steven Pemberton. It is interactive, structured, high-level, and intended to be used instead of BASIC, Pascal, or AWK. It is not meant to be a systems-programming language but is intended for teaching or prototyping.
