Education and field work. After a brief stint in Cambridge, Evans-Pritchard became professor of social anthropology at the University of Oxford and a Fellow of All Souls College. He remained at All Souls College for the rest of his career. Among the doctoral students he advised was the late M. N.

When Boas retired in 1937, most of his students considered Ruth Benedict to be the obvious choice for the head of the anthropology department. However, the administration of Columbia was not as progressive in its attitude towards female professionals as Boas had been, and the university President Nicholas Murray Butler was eager to curb the influence of the Boasians whom he considered to be political radicals .

Academic work. Her current research is on writing and literature as cultural process and form focusing on contemporary Irish writers and their work. Drawing on her research, she teaches courses on Media anthropology, Visual Culture, Studies in Cultural Form, Communication and Aesthetics, Anthropological Writing Genres, and Anthropological Methods.

In a short period of time, Paranthropology has established itself as a serious and intelligent voice in the difficult and sensitive area of the anthropological study of the 'paranormal.' We are living in a complicated period in relation to our understanding of 'extraordinary' phenomena. Naive materialist approaches are more assertive than ever, in anthropology and in the world more generally.

Zora Neale Hurston. Today Zora Neale Hurston is known more for being a fiction writer than being an American anthropologist. Yet she provided important contributions in both the field of anthropology and the world of fiction.
