Possession: Cognitive Sources, Forces, and Grammaticalization (Cambridge Studies in Linguistics series) by Bernd Heine. In this new work, Bernd Heine claims that the structure of grammatical categories is predictable to a large extent once we know the range of possible cognitive structures from which they are derived.

Possession: Cognitive Sources, Forces, and ...

Possession, in the context of linguistics, is an asymmetric relationship between two constituents, the referent of one of which in some sense possesses the referent of the other. Possession may be marked in many ways, such as simple juxtaposition of nouns, possessive case, possessed case, construct state, or adpositions. For example, English uses a possessive clitic, 's; a preposition, of; and adjectives, my, your, his, her, etc. Predicates denoting possession may be formed either by using a ver
