The New Farm is Preston's memoir of a decade of grinding toil and perseverance. Farming is a complex and precarious business, and they made plenty of mistakes along the way. But as they learned how to grow food, and to succeed at the business of farming, they also found that a small, sustainable, organic farm could be an engine for change, a ...

Harvest Farm is a 100-acre farm and rehabilitation center for men, located in Wellington, Colorado. Owned and operated by Denver Rescue Mission, the Farm hosts up to 72 men who participate in our long-term New Life Program with the goal of breaking the cycles of addiction and homelessness. This called to me from the "staff picks" shelf at my local library, usually a place of hot new releases. This book chronicles the first 10 years at "The New Farm," documenting a young couple's struggle and ultimate success at sustainable - and profitable! - organic farming, basically at the dawn of the organic food movement.

"You would be forgiven," Brent Preston writes, "for thinking this book is yet another in the well-established City Folk Move to the Country genre. You would be forgiven for thinking that we, having decided to experience life on the farm, had found it nasty, brutish and ridiculous, then written a book.

This book is a must-read for new and aspiring organic farmers and those who care about organic food. Preston's informative and thoroughly entertaining book shares the struggles and rewards that he and his wife Gillian Flies experienced as they built a thriving organic farm. In 2003 they bought a 100-acre farm on the windy Niagara escarpment.
