The Painted Man is the first book in a five book series. The Painted Man is a story that follows the story of three P.O.V characters from childhood to maturity. The civilisation that these characters grow up in has gone from an advanced civilization to a civilization back in the dark ages, due to attacks from demons called corelings.

The Painted Man takes a lot of traditional fantasy tropes but spins them into some new and fresh that gives me a lot of hope for the genre. I can't wait for the sequel and whatever else Mr. Brett has in store for us.

It is the first part of the Demon Cycle. It was first published by Harper Collins's Voyager imprint in the United Kingdom on 1 September 2008.

The Warded Man (Demon Cycle, #1) by Peter V. Brett

The Painted Man is the introductory installment in the 5-book saga of the Demon Cycle. The story centers around the three main characters, Arlen, Leesha and Rojer, starting with their childhood and ending into their adulthood.

The Warded Man spoke to me in a way few fantasy novels do now. The setting is a unique dark world plagued by coreling, demons that rise at night to feast on the flesh of man and return to the center of the earth with the morning. For the most part the world is cohesive and interesting.
